June 10, 2019Almost returned it after reading the negative reviews, but realized that I would at least give it a shot and try to install it I hooked it up and it automatically set the time! To save myself frustration I immediately used instructions to set the alarm, not difficult to follow their examples, but certainly not intuitively. I was able to pre-install my favorite radio station and connect bluetooth without a manual. Love a compact size, radio, and Bluetooth connection at such an affordable price. Goodbye cell phone alarms! I shot one star because it's not intuitive and it doesn't sound like a speaker bosc (obviously). Helpful? I bought this online, so was a little surprised by the size, thought it would be a little bigger. Should have paid more attention to size, but this saves space on the nightstand. I particularly like the USB charging port, and the watch has a lot of features that I've been looking for, with 2 alarms and the ability to set alarms for Mon-Friday and another on the weekend, so I don't have to turn to remember to reset it on a Sunday night. I found it a bit hard to work with and get used to it. The buttons feature completely flat to the surface, so in the dark and reaching over from the bed, you're not sure what function you're pushing or exactly where the button is. As well as having to look down on it to see the description of the function of the button. I often found myself going through a few steps to achieve what I wanted as I started with the wrong button. The dimmer display is great at night so as not to be intrusive, however if you don't return it to a normal display during the day it's almost unreadable in normal light and at any distance from it. Helpful? Setting up the watch and menu is incredibly unintuitive. In no way to figure out how to set up without instructions. Almost back, but Bluetooth works well, so I'm tough out of the instructions until I'm used to it. The watch's bright/dim levels are appropriate. All functions seem to work the way they should. The backup battery is not enough time. Helpful? On April 15, 2020I bought this modern alarm clock because it had great features, but a few months later its main function (clock) started to fail. Lights in some numbers don't work! I have had cheaper digital watches that have worked for years, so I feel really disappointed about this product. Helpful? January 18, 2020Y absolutely hate this alarm clock. Each button has several uses, but they do not respond as stated. For example, if you press the dimmer button, it activates the snooze button and turns on the radio. Then the stupidity doesn't turn off. Setting the time and everything else is a train wreck. I've just had enough to deal with this piece of garbage over the last few years and finally broke my fist toss it. It belongs to a plastic shredder. Helpful? November 11, 2016 I myself at any I'm not going to try to sell a piece of junk like this!!! Helpful? June 26, 2015, Terrible! Terrible! I find it very difficult to understand what each button does. It's hard to establish. The best feature is Bluetooth and USB charging. I don't recommend it. Doesn't like the giftInstructionSound for moneyCavalitiHerpful? September 15, 2020This worst alarm clock ever! And the directions are so difficult to set the alarm. And you can't stop the alarm. I just throw it away after not being able to stop my alarm clock from constantly disturbing 2:00am. The directions are tiny and I have to use a magnifying glass to read them. But setting the alarm goes crazy. Worst product I've ever bought. And I'm not an illiterate product! I can program any other device, product or computer in my home. DONT BUY IT! Don't like Sound-Kuali as a giftInstructionHerpful? The hour-long radio won't work on any of the alarms. Returned for the money back as there were no other double radio alarm clocks in the warehouse. Still looking for DUAL Alarm Clock.Helpful? We hooked up this watch and found out in the middle of the night that the numbers are so big and bright that they light up the whole room. He's going to return that watch. Helpful? 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 Table Content 10 Image is not available forColor: Read Instructions - All Safety and Function. The lady I spoke to was very helpful and nice. I had a watch???? It's been a long time to go back to the store. It still doesn't work properly. Alarm at 11pm every night and then a loud noise a couple of hours later. I threw it away. I've never had a watch or any item that has so few directions to just make it work normally. So I guess I just threw my money down the drain. I can see where others have had the same problem. They love me?? No refund and no hours as of course there were no working hours to start with. How can you sell an item like that and not return your money???? Almost returned it after reading the negative reviews, but realized I would at least give it a shot and try to install it I hooked it up and he would automatically set the time! The dimmer display is great at night so as not to be intrusive, however if you don't return it to a normal display during the day it's almost unreadable in normal light and at any distance from it. I read the bad reviews. I thought to myself: I'm a savvy tech professional. These reviewers are all probably old people who can't set the clock on their microwave. This product is really scary. I would like to ask the designer of this product a few questions:1. Are you a nonconformist? Good job. However, some major conventions for these kinds of devices were created decades ago. I actually had to read the instructions to set the alarm. Congratulations, you made me read the instructions for a simple electronics product for the first time - ever. Why do you think the hour-long radio should only work in daylight? You've made identical indicator lights for many things (AM/PM, radio/buzzer, daylight saving in/off, etc). However, the labels for each of them are not visible in the dark. Were you afraid that there was a patent for common sense that you could infringe on? This may explain the use of the same button for multiple, completely unrelated functions. Want to turn off the radio/alarm? Just hold the power button for 3 seconds. Unfortunately, you only sleepily pressed the button - sorry, you are now in Bluetooth mode. Only 3 more cranes and 3 Hold everything right again.4. Why do you assume that everyone wants to listen at full volume? I put the radio volume on a normal, human-tolerant level. Why did you make this device completely ignore previous settings every time the alarm goes off?5. Why does the colon blink? Just displaying '10:35' wasn't exciting enough? You had to make the colon blink?6. Are you just so loathing to be assigned to a very unsexy watch radio project that you decide to take it to the company? I'm asking because you could just call. The radio design clock reached its peak around 1985. You really shouldn't have done any work. You make an effort to make this product worse.7. You design this after a conversation over drinks where one of your buddies asked: What if in every moment of making a decision you did the opposite of what made sense? What would that look like? That would be awesome! If so, congratulations. You managed to make this product as scarier as possible while technically functioning enough to make it past quality control and on store shelves. Kudos to my friend! I usually check reviews before I buy, but not here. Like 99% of people who own these hours frustrated with setting the alarm will set your character on fire. To access the time setting or alarm you are instructed to rotate the power that is futile direction. You can't turn off the power and are left to spend half an hour or more trying to get the alarm clock leaving you wanting to smash the thing with a hammer. ABSOLUTELY USELESS PIECE OF JUNK!!!!!! I've emailed the company but still haven't heard from them. I'm sure if others emailed I didn't tell them anything they didn't hear.but good GRIEF! I swore never to buy the Sylvania product again. KEEP LOOKING! IT'S NOT THE ALARM CLOCK YOU WANT. IT'S TERRIBLE. IT'S INSANELY AWFUL. I HATE THAT WATCH. As almost everyone else has said, this is the most disappointing watch ever to set up. And, even if you get it customized to your liking, praying you don't have to change anything because it's just as hard to figure out a second time. The instructions don't fit the product, and as stated, how little or a lot you press on a certain button changes everything. But my biggest complaint is the rising anxiety. My old anxiety did it, but gradually. This alarm goes from low to ear piercing in seconds (before you can flip it over and off it) and when you turn it off, if you don't turn it off, it will start in a loud state it's run out in. I wish I had read the reviews before I bought it, but I was in the store and it sounded good. Lesson learned, read the reviews before you buy! Buy!
